

The Ten Commandments of Ethics

1. Thou shalt defer credit to others
2. Thou shalt treat all associates, internal and external customers and vendors, as you wish to be treated yourself
3. Thou shalt not paint others into corners
4. Thou shalt not abuse the spoken or written word
5. Thou shalt consider the other party's viewpoint
6. When doubting the moral validity of a behaviour, abstain
7. Thou shalt practice the art of open and honest communication
8. Thou shalt forgive and allow for redemption
9. When recognizing thou hast sinned, humbly confess
10. Thou shalt treat subordinates with the same respect accorded supervisors
